So many entrepreneurs, business owners, and great leaders have amazing formal education and life experience that should give them everything need to have continued success. Unfortunately, that is no longer enough. Times are different and the workforce has changed. Now, it is critical that we learn to motivate ourselves and the people around us differently and that requires a mindset change followed by massive and immediate action.

Too often we see brilliant people become stuck with no idea of how to change the patterns that will become a downward spiral into the abyss of average. It happens when we try to fit in and be what we think the world expects us to be. That was me until I took action and changed my mindset.

I used to believe that the inability to be what others would consider "normal" was a character defect, instead of gifts meant to make me amazing. There was always something within me that wanted to do more, learn more, share more and give back much more.

After years of running on the hamster wheel myself, I realized that I was meant to help other people who are entrepreneurs, businesses owners and everyday heroes become the best version of themselves. I help people get out their rut, create a new mindset and design the future that they want to have.

Without action, a vision is nothing more than a dream that will fade away and be remembered fondly as something awesome you could have done-if only you had tried.

IT'S ALL IN YOUR MIND

MINDSET IS ONE THING YOU CAN ALWAYS CONTROL. LEARNING TO DEVELOP THE RIGHT MINDSET WILL CHANGE YOUR LIFE IN WAYS THAT YOU WOULD NOT IMAGINE AND YOU WILL NEVER WANT TO LIVE IN ANY OTHER FRAME OF MIND.

Transforming your mindset is critical to having the life that you want. Many people think that they don't need help with mindset, but there is so much more to it than trying to be happy in every situation. Our brains and our bodies work congruently to give us what we want, but it's not always happening the way we think it is.

Shari Jo will take you on a journey deep into the mind to help you uncover the things that keep creeping in and preventing you from reaching and maintaining the conscious and deliberate state of freedom that a transformed mindset brings.

Think you've got mindset mastered? Chances are you've never been more wrong. Discover traits and behaviors that we all have and how they can both help and hinder every aspect of your life - personally and professionally.

It really is all in your mind.

For years I struggled with the rollercoaster of trying to be happy and find balance between my work life and personal life. I just couldn't seem to stay happy regardless of how many self-help books I read and courses I took. After working with Shari Jo, I was finally able to discover what was holding me back. The life I lead now is incredible. I didn't think it was possible...but it is!

You'll have a personalized and confidential relationship that will allow you to see through the muck and exponentially increase your impact and outcomes.

We will deep-dive into current level of competencies to maximize strengths and overcome areas of weakness. Together we clarify goals and strategy, plan for action, increase focus, and maximize personal accountability.

Continuous and accelerating change driven by technology, relentless cost-cutting, global competition, and many other daily challenges take up a leader's time and energy and keep them awake at night.

Too often, we expect that we should be able to figure everything out on our own. We believe we should have all the answers while we drive growth within our teams, work under pressure, continue to innovate to stay ahead of the competition - all while creating an inviting atmosphere and culture.

The fact is that most executives need help.

That is where performance coaching comes in.
